MANAGER'S COMMENTARY

In US dollar terms, the MSCI world was down 3.7% in January, but with the Canadian dollar losing 4.9%, Canadian dollar performance of the index produced a small gain.

The Greenchip fund slightly lagged the MSCI index in January due to our relatively higher allocation to Canadian stocks and the underperformance of one of our largest positions. Alstom, the French energy and transportation equipment manufacturer reduced cash flow guidance and the stock declined sharply. But we believe markets failed to recognize the higher margins Alstom is generally experiencing on its existing contracts. The company's shares are currently trading at very attractive 8x earnings and 6x cash flow multiples. We have added to our position.

Boralex, our largest gainer in January, was up 14%. The company was rewarded for bringing on the Seigneurie de Beaupre, one of Canada's largest wind farms, on time and on budget. The market has clearly reassessed the improved financials of this growing renewable energy developer.
